Hi. I'm Craig!

AUTHOR, EDUCATOR & COACH

I'm Craig Goddard, and my story begins in the unassuming town of Goulburn. It's been a journey of transformation for me, from navigating the practical paths of trades to delving deep into personal growth, fatherhood and creative expression. Through it all, storytelling became my forte. "Landing Home" is my heart's work, blending my insights on love, purpose, and spiritual wisdom with the art of fiction. This journey, from facing adversity to finding alignment with my true self, is one I share to inspire others to unlock their own potential and discover the magic within themselves.

BOOK BIO

"Landing Home" follows the story of Malik, a student in a seven-dimensional realm, under the guidance of his teacher, Paige. Embarking on a transformative journey, Malik explores the intricacies of energy, focus, and conscious creating, venturing beyond the veil of their existence into the dense reality of Earth. As he navigates challenges, Malik discovers profound truths about love, loss, and the interconnectedness of all beings. This narrative not only delves into Malik's personal evolution but also reflects on the universal quest for understanding, connection, and the purpose of existence.

REVIEW

An invaluable delight!

'Storytelling is my favourite way to learn and alchemy is one of my favourite things to learn about, so this book was an absolute treat to read. It took me back to my first time reading The Alchemist and The Celestine Prophecy, where reading the story was super enjoyable and equally the wisdom in the pages is invaluable. Craig has a real timeless way of writing and I was captivated from the first page. It was a real page turner that I could really feel - I cried, laughed and read on in shock at different moments, which I loved, because it really took me on a ride. I recommend this to anyone - Landing Home carries a specific wisdom that would be valuable to any person hoping to get the most out of their life with practical tools to rise above resistance on the path to personal greatness. Congratulations Craig, this is going to be a powerful read for many!'

Excerpt from Chapter 27: Volatile Reflections

"When I was being held under by the force of the water I woke up!" Announced Tyler in a surprisingly calm voice as if he'd gained a new awareness and with it perspective on what's really going on. "Go on," Brother Halligan encouraged him. He was not at all confused by Tyler's statement but very keen to hear the rest. "I opened my eyes and was standing on a grassy hillside with the sunlight warm on my cheek as I returned the gaze of Paige; she was a woman that is familiar to me and I knew that she was my teacher.

"We communicated telepathically about what I was experiencing and discovering during my third-dimensional experience on Earth. While I was there with her I had a complete recollection of my true nature and purpose for my experience as a human.

"Paige reminded me that as I re-entered my earthly consciousness the clarity and detail of what I was experiencing in that moment would diminish sufficiently to where I'd once again have just a sense that there's more to me and more to life." Tyler sighed as he continued. "She said that the tension from my soul seeking expression through me would continue to subtly impact my decisions and the direction of my life as I unfold the truth and return to having a conscious awareness of my wholeness."
